Featured in the Data RoundUp this week:

BIG week here at IO...LOTS of news including the opening of a new IO.Anywhere location, new customers, and IO thought leaders getting their messages out to the masses.

SEC Outsources to IO in $17.5M Contract (Data Center Knowledge) One might conclude that government agencies are getting more and more comfortable in outsourcing higher-level, sensitive functions.

Bringing Colo to the Customer: Modular Gets Local (Data Center Knowledge) Dubbed "IO.Anywhere," the modules are built in a factory in Phoenix and can be shipped virtually anywhere by truck, rail or plane. IO has developed modules for networking gear and power and cooling equipment, allowing customers to create all components of a modern data center.

Current Cyber Defenses Called Inadequate (Dayton Daily News) CSO of IO, Bob Butler, was a keynote speaker at the 10th annual Ohio Information Security Conference Dayton, Ohio. He was there to help inform area IT professionals about what they should be doing to protect their companies or organizations against cyber attacks.

The Era of Brilliant Machines (IO Blog) The power of actionable analytics is permeating every aspect of life, including the data center.

The Companies & Countries Losing Their Data (Harvard Business Review) For companies that operate globally, across many borders, one country's policy will not protect them. It's still going to be up to the corporation to take prudent care.

Register for the DCK Data Center Transformation webinar (Data Center Knowledge) On 3.28 at 2pm EST you're invited to learn more about data center transformation when IO Senior Vice President Aaron Peterson has an in-depth conversation with the Editor-in-Chief of Data Center Knowledge, Rich Miller. The discussion will revolve around the increasing pace of the global demands being placed on data center providers.
